

The Five Prompts

Whether it's 3am or 3pm, anyone can ask AI who you are. What does it say?

Before a board interview, a first meeting or an investor call, people now ask AI who you are. Most leaders have never checked the answer. Here's how to check yours, on your own, in about ten minutes.

46%

of institutional investors are more likely to read an AI summary than the earnings call or transcript.

Brunswick Group, 2026 US Investor Survey

From Angela Gallitano

BEFORE YOU START

Find ten quiet minutes.

Anywhere between 3am and 3pm works.

Open a private or incognito window.

So your own search history doesn't shape the answer.

Use your name as it reads on LinkedIn.

If a tool offers web search, turn it on.

Screenshot every answer, and date it.

That's your before.

1 ChatGPT

Is it current?

Checks for: Misread

PASTE THIS

Who is [Your Full Name], [Your Title] at [Your Company]? Tell me what you found and where you found it.

- If it asks which [Your Name] you mean, that's your first answer.

✓ A GOOD ANSWER SOUNDS LIKE

Your current title, the right person, and sources you'd point to yourself.

"[Your Name] is Chief Operating Officer at [Company]. Sources: [yourname].com and LinkedIn."

✗ A WEAK ANSWER SOUNDS LIKE

An old title, someone else who shares your name, or "I couldn't find much."

"[Your Name] is a Director at [Former Company], per a profile last updated in [year]."

SCORE WHAT CAME BACK

☐ It's me ☐ It's current ☐ It's specific ☐ It sounds like me

Who showed up instead? _____

2 Claude

Is it specific?

Checks for: Interchangeable

PASTE THIS

What is [Your Full Name] known for as a leader? Give me three specifics, and where each one comes from.

- Read the three out loud. Would you say them about yourself?

✓ A GOOD ANSWER SOUNDS LIKE

Three things you'd actually say, each tied to something real you did.

"Known for turning around struggling regions by starting with the people doing the work."

✗ A WEAK ANSWER SOUNDS LIKE

Lines that could describe any VP in the building.

"A seasoned executive with a proven track record of driving growth."

☐ It's me ☐ It's current ☐ It's specific ☐ It sounds like me

Who showed up instead? _____

3 Perplexity

Would a stranger trust it?

Checks for: Invisible

PASTE THIS

I'm meeting [Your Full Name] next week about [a board seat, a new role, an investment]. What should I know about them before we talk?

- Perplexity lists its sources. Write down every one. That's what AI is reading about you.

✓ A GOOD ANSWER SOUNDS LIKE

How you lead and what you've done, from sources that are yours.

"Colleagues count on [Your Name] for calm under pressure. They write about building teams that stay."

✗ A WEAK ANSWER SOUNDS LIKE

A few job titles from a directory site, or an old press release.

"Limited information is available. [Your Name] appears in a [year] company announcement."

SCORE WHAT CAME BACK

☐ It's me ☐ It's current ☐ It's specific ☐ It sounds like me

Who showed up instead? _____

Do you show up?

Checks for: Outshouted

PASTE THIS

Who are the most respected [your field] leaders in [your city or industry]? Why is each one on the list?

- Try two or three ways of naming your field. Notice who keeps showing up.

✓ A GOOD ANSWER SOUNDS LIKE

You're on the list, for the reason you'd want to be.

"[Your Name], for [the thing you want to be known for]."

✗ A WEAK ANSWER SOUNDS LIKE

Your peers are on it. You aren't.

"Leaders often cited include [Peer], [Peer] and [Peer]."

5 Google's AI results

Are your words out there?

Checks for: your own words

PASTE THIS

Search “[Your Full Name] [Your Company]” and read the AI Overview. Then ask AI Mode: What has [Your Full Name] said publicly about [your topic]?

- No AI Overview at all? That tells you something too.

✓ A GOOD ANSWER SOUNDS LIKE

It quotes you: a talk, an article, your own website.

“In a [year] keynote, [Your Name] said [something you'd happily say again].”

✗ A WEAK ANSWER SOUNDS LIKE

It quotes a company press release, or nothing you actually said.

“[Company] announced that [Your Name] will lead [division].”

SCORE WHAT CAME BACK

☐ It's me ☐ It's current ☐ It's specific ☐ It sounds like me

Who showed up instead? _____

Didn't sound like you?

You're in good company. Most leaders have never checked.
That's normal. It's where I come in.

The Known For Search audit

I run every prompt for you.

All five, across every tool, saved as screenshots. Your before, on the record.

I score what comes back.

Is it accurate, current, complete, and actually you?
And who shows up instead.

You get a fix plan, and we walk it together.

Aimed at what these tools read: your LinkedIn, your bios, your own website on your own domain.

One honest thing.

Nobody controls what AI says. What we can change is what it reads. Then we check again.
